Over the past decade, nearly 8,000 Palestinian children living in the occupied West Bank have been arrested by Israeli forces and prosecuted by an Israeli military system notorious for systematic abuse and widespread ill treatment of Palestinian children.

Jennifer Bing, director of the Palestine-Israel program for the American Friends Service Committee, will speak about AFSC's advocacy campaign focused on ending military detention of Palestinian children (www.nowaytotreatachild.org). She will share testimonies of Palestinian children through the documentary "Detaining Dreams" and the impact their detention has on communities in the West Bank.
