

The Palestinian Nakba:

a presentation and book signing event about the Palestinian situation featuring

Nahida Halaby Gordon, PhD

Monday, May 14th at 12:30pm

at

First Presbyterian Church, Durham

305 East Main Street

Bring your lunch

light dessert and beverages will be offered

Nahida Halaby was 9 years old, in April, 1948, living in Yafa (Jaffa), the famous, ancient port city of Palestine when her family quickly packed what they could and hastily drove to Lebanon to escape the escalating bombing following Britain's stated intention to leave after the 1947 UN partition of Mandate Palestine.

Once the danger ended, they intended to return to their home and her father's successful import business – but were never permitted to do so.

Read more at:

Justice Unbound
an Interactive Journal of Christian Social Justice

justiceunbound.org/carousel/this-is-my-story/

“Within [this book], one can experience first-hand the pathos, resilience, and aspirations of the Palestinian collective through the narratives of individual Palestinians who have undergone dispossession, denial, and exile.” (Hanan Ashrawi)

Palestine Is Our Home

Voices of Loss, Courage, and Steadfastness

Nahida Halaby Gordon, editor

Foreword by Mitri Raheb

With a Discussion Leader's Guide and color photographs

Sponsored by The Coalition for Peace with Justice

www.cpwj.org

with appreciation to First Presbyterian Church, Durham for hosting this event